About The Conference

Now that Brexit is done can we finally achieve the once in a generation task of social care reform?

Despite the devastating impact COVID-19 has had on society, social care has once again demonstrated its key importance as the sister of the NHS; the fourth emergency service. We have seen unprecedented political and public interest in the sector. So, what can the sector do to maintain this level of interest and once and for all achieve, the so desperately needed reform of social care?

This conference will see key influencers representing all areas of the sector come together to discuss the challenges and opportunities that have arisen from the pandemic. Speakers will look at current trends in the sector and how social care practice has changed during Covid and beyond, equipping delegates with the latest information and innovations. Panel discussions will focus on how to get social care done and attain long overdue reform for the sector. Also incorporated into the agenda will be a showcase of Social Care Covid Heroes.

This event, which provides an ideal opportunity for delegates to reconnect post Covid, is aimed at registered managers, senior managers, clinicians, owner managers, key decision makers and influencers from across the social care arena, including adult services and services for people with learning disabilities and/or autism. We expect 300 + delegates.

Introduction to Sponsorship

*“The COVID-19 pandemic has taught us many lessons one of which, is the fantastic professionalism of social care staff. Never again will anybody be able to say social care is a low skilled occupation. Throughout this pandemic the commitment, skills and competencies of the social care workforce have been on display and they have finally been noted by the media and the general public. Now that we have got this increased recognition, we must ensure that it is the platform for a new future, where the social care workforce is recognised, trained and remunerated in a way that reflects their professionalism.” **

Professor Martin Green, CEO Care England

*“If the sector is to fully recover it will need not just short-term support but also a long-term vision for social care and a plan to tackle the longstanding issues around workforce, quality, and market fragility.” **

Simon Bottery, Senior Fellow, Social Care, The King’s Fund

*“Without doubt the sector has a golden opportunity in 2021 to move decisively forward from this position of newfound strength, to break out of the shadow of the NHS and achieve the standing and funding for which we have campaigned for so long. But to do so we must be resolute, united and crystal-clear on our goals and strategy.” **

James Bullion, President, Association of Directors of Adult Social Services

As an exhibitor at the Care Talk coming out of Covid conference you will be given the opportunity to showcase your products and services to other providers, suppliers and key decision makers and influencers from across the sector.

This includes; commissioners from local authorities and care associations, fellow traders, managers, directors, care operators, senior nursing staff, financial directors, CEOs, purchasing officers through to the people who use the service throughout the social care sector. It is an opportunity to promote your services with interactive sessions in which delegates and exhibitors can participate.

We have had interest in a wide variety of sponsors from suppliers to the industry, providers and professional companies who all have a desire to add their brand to the sector and place it in front of the people they are targeting.

The speaker programme includes:

Chair: Paul Burstow, Chair at the Social Care Institute for Excellence (SCIE)

- Professor Martin Green, CEO, Care England
- Sally Warren, Director of Policy, The Kings Fund
- Mark Adams, CEO, Community Integrated Care
- Sir David Behan, Chair, HC-One
- Sir Simon Stevens, CEO, NHS England
